A general discussion will close the session.

The Rev. Earl A. Brooks, of West, and H. W. Smith, of Morgantown, will speak at the Thursday afternoon session, which will be concluded by a general discussion and the reports of committees.

At the final night session J. G. Peters, in charge of the bureau of state co-operation, forest service, Washington, D. C., and N. R. Butler, commissioner of fisheries, of Harrisburg, Pa., will talk.

ENORMOUS LOSSES

Sustained by the Turks in All of Their Regiments in the Recent Fighting.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
LONDON, Nov. 28.—4:35 a. m.—Reuter's Petrograd correspondent sends the following despatch received from Russian army headquarters in the Caucasus:

"The Turks defeated in the recent fighting suffered enormous losses in all their regiments. The Twenty-Eighth and Twenty-Ninth divisions lost half their men and the Eighty-Eighth regiment was almost entirely destroyed. The commander of the Thirty-Fourth division was killed at Maslagra. The commander of the Thirty-Third division deserted. The Turkish commander in chief has decided to disband the Kurds, whose work was unsatisfactory.

"The fighting recently has been unimportant."

JOHN A. KEENAN DIES SUDDENLY

Well Known Young Man Passes Away after a Few Hours' Illness.

John A. Keenan, aged 25 years, secretary and treasurer of the Clarksburg Pottery Company, died suddenly at his home, 111 Linden avenue at 10 o'clock Saturday night of acute indigestion. Mr. Keenan was a well known and popular young man and the news of his death was a severe shock to his friends.

He spent his usual hours at his work Saturday returning home in the evening and dressing for dinner, when he did not respond to a second call for dinner a brother went to his room to see what was the matter. He said he was not feeling well and that he did not want any dinner. He later grew worse and a physician was summoned. Although all medical aid possible was rendered he passed away at the hour stated above.

The deceased young man is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Keenan, four brothers and four sisters. The brothers are James, Thomas, John and Joseph Keenan. The sisters are Mrs. Edward V. Connell, and Misses Loreta, Eva and Regenia Keenan, all living at home.

Mr. Keenan was educated in St. Joseph's Academy, of this city, and the Christian Brothers College of St. Louis, Mo. He was a member of the Catholic church and took an active part in church work. He was a member of Clarksburg Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, and the St. Mary's Club.

No funeral arrangements have been made as yet.

HUNGER

May Drive Belgians in Desperation to Attack the Germans for Food.

LONDON, 8:25 p. m., Nov. 28.—There is eminent danger that driven to despair by hunger the Belgians in some districts will attack the Germans in an effort to obtain food according to a report received today by Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the American Relief Commission from a special commissioner doing relief work in Maastricht, Holland.

In the suburbs of Antwerp, the commissioner's report says, refuses declared there was virtually a food famine. The inhabitants were dependent solely upon the commission's distribution, and when the supply temporarily became exhausted privation at once ensued.

The conditions at Louvain refugees states are still worse. The people are actually starving and are living in ruins.

DEBT COMMISSION

Will Hold a Meeting at An Early Date in the City of Charleston.

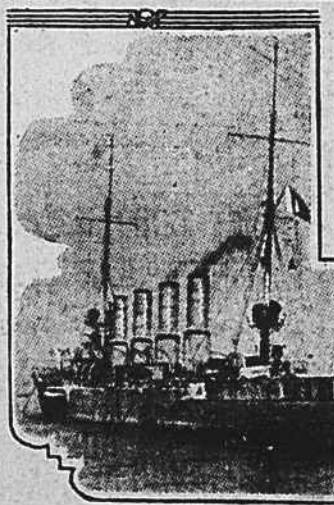

PARKERSBURG, Nov. 28.—J. A. Boreman, one of the members of the Virginia Debt Commission, received notification today that a meeting of the commission will be held at Charleston on December 17, when there will be important matters for consideration.

John T. Harris, secretary of the commission, who spent Thanksgiving at his home here will return to Charleston this evening as he is busily engaged in making an alphabetically arranged index for the record in the case as called for by Special Master Littlefield.

Discussing his candidacy for the clerkship of the senate, Mr. Harris said that he was reasonably sure of the appointment, as he had voluntary assurance for a number of the members that they were for him. The friends of Mr. Harris do not think that the entry of Jake Smith, of McDowell county, into the race will endanger his chances.

Miss Glass, of Columbus, O., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Osman E. Swart, returned home this morning.

HERE'S GERMAN CRUISER BOUGHT BY TURKEY AND USED IN PRESENT WAR

Here is the cruiser Breslau, which took part in the recent naval engagement between Turkey and Russia in the Black Sea. When Germany declared war on the allies, the Breslau and her sister ship, the Goeben, were in the Mediterranean. Rather than risk their falling into the hands of the allies, Germany sold these vessels to Turkey. It is said they still retain their German officers and crews.

WAR PLANS

Of Germany Were Divulged by a Retired General in 1913 Says Toronto Editor.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—The retired German general von Bernhardt, divulged plans of Germany for the war which now is in progress at a secret meeting of 300 Germans in San Francisco May 26, 1913, according to a statement tonight by Dr. J. A. McDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe. Dr. McDonald spoke at a reunion of the Toronto University Alumni Association of Chicago.

He asserted he had it from undoubted authority that Germany long had been preparing for the present war and that in 1913 a retired general of the Prussian army had made a secret visit to the United States and informed prominent Germans of the detailed plan of the proposed attack.

Dr. McDonald said he could not make public the name of his informant but that he attended the meeting at which General von Bernhardt is said to have revealed the plans of the German attack.

HOME GUARDS

Are Organized into a Regiment to Protect Canadians from Possible German Raids.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
BUFFALO, Nov. 28.—Extraordinary precautions have been taken to guard against a possible raid by German sympathizers across the Niagara river. A permanent guard of thirty militiamen has been stationed at Fort Erie, directly opposite Buffalo, and the whole river front from there to Niagara Falls is patrolled day and night by between 500 and 600 members of the newly organized home guards regiment. Automobiles and motorcycles are used by the men on patrol duty.

MILLION

Dollars is Demanded in Cabel County Circuit Court Suits This Year.

HUNTINGTON, Nov. 28.—More than a million dollars, to be exact, $1,442,164, has been demanded in assumpsit and damage suits filed in circuit court so far this year, in 163 different actions. The total number of suits brought during the first eleven months of 1914 is 443; 118 divorce suits, 188 chancery (other than divorce); 78 trespass on the case and 85 assumpsit cases. The record far surpasses any other period in the history of Cabel county.

The largest suits were in assumpsit, one that of the Carroll Hardware Company vs. U. B. Buskirk, et al., $300,000 and another for $100,000. A. L. Callahan vs. Sol Hyman and Frank L. Doolittle the actions being entered in May and January respectively.

The October term of circuit court which recently closed had probably the largest docket ever known in the county, hundreds of cases having been tried.

SAVE $100,000

FIRST YEAR OF PRISON LABOR

State Board Engineer Shows Fine Results for State from Convict Road Work.

The first year's trial of prison labor in West Virginia has saved the state more than $100,000, according to State Road Engineer Williams, in spite of the fact that less than 100 of the 1,500 convicts in the state penitentiary have been at work on the roads. In addition Mr. Williams says, the prisoners have been improved morally, and physically.

The number of prisoners in the jails of the state has decreased since July 1, when the prohibition amendment became effective, and Mr. Williams attributes the decrease to prohibition. In three counties, Wirt, Hardy and Pendleton, there are no prisoners.

The state prison gangs will be kept in the field the entire winter. In Berkeley county 20 prisoners constructed 20 miles of macadam road and 35 miles of earth road. The macadam, which formerly cost about $1,500 a mile with citizen labor, cost the county less than $600 per mile with convict labor. A Kanawha county report shows a saving of from 60 to 75 per cent, with a prison camp. The county court had let a contract to move four miles of road material at an average for earth and rock of 61 cents. Prison labor did the same work for 26 cents.

THE CURRENT MAGAZINES

Eugene Pyle, Jr., relates how Ned Thacker, of Kansas, serves as king pro tem. Other fiction numbers include "A Vaulting Ambition" by Kate Jordan, "The Time Has Come" by the always entertaining Zona Gale; "The Girl Who Walked without Fear" by Louise Rice and "Old Sanny" by Eugene Wood.

The special articles include "The Grim Business of War," by Frederick Palmer, America's official war correspondent, which pictures at close range the grim work of the trenches and sums up the strategy and the results of the first three months of fighting; "Catholics under the War Cloud," by Ralph Adams Cram and illustrated with full page photographic reproductions; "For Valor" by F. Cunliffe-Owen describes medals offered by various nations for distinguished services; "When Christians Fight, Are They Christians?" by Garet Garrett and "The War in Dollars and Cents" by Yves Guyot.

Three gripping stories by leading writers, a number of special articles and the fourth installment of "The Grafton Pearls," in addition to the regular departments, are continued in the December number of The Designer.

Helen Christine Bennett contributes "The Business of Being Santa Claus," while "A Christmas Present for a Gentleman" by Kathleen Morris is a story that will hold the reader's undivided attention. "The Trappings of Christmas" is Mary Stewart Cutting's contribution to this number. "My Christmas on an Ocean Liner," by Jane Temple Carson; "Christmas is for the Children" by Maud Tousey Fangel; "The Dawn of Another Day" by Nancy Musselman Schoonmaker, and "The Christmas Gift," by Lillian Ducey, are other features of this issue.

In the special departments, which are all maintained at their usual standard, housewives are advised as to preparing of the Christmas dinner by leading culinary experts. The winter fashions are dealt with in special articles by fashion experts and are profusely illustrated.

"When the War is Over," is the leading article in McClure's Magazine for December. "The Old Fashioned Wife" by Sophie Kerr Underwood is the first of a series of stories by a new writer dealing with the adventures of a modern wife. Other interesting articles are "Bread and Butter" by Henry Kitchell Webster; "More Chapters from My Life," the beginning of a second series of reminiscences of S. S. McClure, the founder of the magazine; "Can We Foretell the Future" by William Archer, study of alleged cases of foreknowledge of the future with imaginary photographs; "You Get What You Want" by Holworthy Hall; "Through His Boy's Eyes," by Frank Goewey Jones and "Hard Times" by Will Payne. There are further installments of Mary Roberts Rinhart's great serial, "K" and of "The Honey Bee" Samuel Merwin's story of a woman in revolt.

The December number of Pictorial Review is full of the Christmas spirit from cover to cover. Under fiction is given the third installment of Maximilian Foster's novel, "The Forgotten House," which has met with great favor, and the eleventh "Octavius," the "Episode of the Smuggled Diamonds," by Frederick Arnold Kummer, as well as four stories of unusual interest—"The Hanging of the Crane" by Lillian Ducey; "The Maljoca Jug," by William Hamilton Osborne; "When Ladd's Ship Came In," by Alice Louise Lee; and "Alias Private Hobbs," by Molly Elliot Seawell, illustrated by W. D. Stevens. The special article in this issue of the Pictorial Review, Honor—His and Hers," by Charlotte Perkins Gilman, gives many interesting side lights on honor, its origin, and the differences between the two codes, masculine and feminine. Home-making and household articles, besides the many hints of interest to the home-maker, offer suggestions for appropriate gifts to friends and relatives. Fashion and fancy work pages illustrate just what is correct and the smartest for mid-winter wear and show how to attain the result with the least possible expenditure of time, money and worry. The "Smuggled Diamonds" ETAIN N The Metropolitan for December contains another war article by John Reed. He calls it "With the Allies." It is an interesting account of the French soldiers on their way to the front, and a little talk about how the French soldiers feel about the war and how much they know about what they are fighting for. In "The Bombardment of Rheims," Gerald Morgan tells of his visit to the Cathedral at the time of the bombardment. "The Rupert Hughes, who is being hailed as the foremost novelist in America, tells the story of the girl who sells herself for fine clothes in the novel.
